There's no such thing as a free lunch

- The total computing power of the producers are limited by the laws of energy and physics

- The proportion of the computing power that you are allowed to use is proportional to the number of tokens you own

So it is free if I'm rich